

Title	Links with Nature: Golf Courses and the Environment
Description	Discusses the benefits of golf courses to the environment through wildlife preservation, promotion of a variety of plants, pollution control, and water conservation. Includes description of golf course superintendent's role and continuing education training.
Copyright Date	1990
Length	14 minutes
Originator	Golf Course Superintendents Association of America
Format	Video (1 tape) only
Status	1 of 1 Video copies available