I am very honored and proud to be the recipient of the Russell L. Butler II Memorial Scholarship. This support has motivated me to go outside my comfort zone to exceed my own expectations and given me the confidence to show everyone the determination and ingenuity I have through my knowledge and love for landscape architecture.

— Peter Graten Meyer
Landscape Architecture, 2017

Providing access to higher education is at the core of our mission

Scholarships and fellowships provide access to Colorado State University and allow students to participate in research and experiences to enhance their education. We believe in our students and expect them to succeed and make Colorado and the world a better place.

GRADUATE STUDENT SUPPORT ($50,000)
Graduate students are key members of cutting-edge research teams and play a vital role in educating our undergraduate students by working alongside faculty. Private support in this area can also bolster research programs and responsiveness to industry to meet the needs of a changing world.

UNDERGRADUATE STUDENT SUPPORT ($25,000 and $50,000)
Support in this area allows the College to recruit and retain students and support these future leaders through diverse educational experiences and personal growth.

Investing in people and programs advances academic and research impact

Endowing vital programs and world-class faculty and staff, including academic, research, and administrative positions, is an important part of Colorado State’s growth and excellence. Through this type of investment, you can significantly transform the breadth, sustainability, and impact of our efforts.

CHAIRS
- Presidential ($6 million)
- University ($3 million)
- College ($1.5 million)

PROFESSORSHIPS
- University ($750,000)
- College ($375,000)

VISITING LECTURER ($250,000)

FELLOWSHIPS ($100,000)

PROGRAMS ($25,000)
Private support for programs in our College sustains the valuable work of our faculty, staff, and students.

Contemporary spaces for research and education that are technologically advanced, support academic and research growth, and facilitate interactions with industry and supporters are critical to achieving our vision.

- Animal Sciences Building Renovation ($15 million)
- CoBank Center for Agricultural Education ($3.3 million)
- JBS Global Food Innovation Center in Honor of Gary & Kay Smith ($20 million)*
- Temple Grandin Equine Center ($5 million)*
- New Agriculture Building ($40 million)*

NOTE: Donor naming opportunities are available in each facility.
* Project cost subject to change.

Facilities: Spaces to learn and discover

Colorado State University’s College of Agricultural Sciences is at the intersection of tradition and innovation, uniquely positioned to become the pre-eminent global leader in tomorrow’s agricultural landscape of business, entrepreneurship, technology, and biology.

Be a part of our quest to help ensure that the food we eat is safe, plentiful, and affordable; that the animals we work with are healthy and treated humanely; and that the spaces in which we live, work, and thrive are beautiful and sustainable for generations to come. Every gift to the College of Agricultural Sciences has the power to transform lives and help lead the way in research and education.

Generous donors of all sizes support people, programs, and facilities, now and for the future.*
WAYS TO GIVE

All forms of giving can provide significant benefit to you, your family, and Colorado State University. We welcome a discussion on which giving option is best for you.

GIFTS OF CASH
Check, credit card/wire transfer, and cash are the most common ways of giving.

PLANNED GIVING
Bequests, charitable gift annuities, and charitable remainder trusts offer donors a variety of ways to support the University and experience current and long-term benefit.

GIFTS OF SECURITIES
Appreciated stock is a popular asset used for charitable giving.

GIFTS OF REAL ESTATE
Donated homes, land, and other types of real estate can advance research and educational programs at Colorado State University.

GIFTS IN KIND
Gifts of personal property can support our College, a department, or other areas designated by the donor, and can include equipment, books, art, or other tangible property, as long as the University can use the gift in furtherance of its mission.