Lecture and Lab Topics
Presentations are made by industry leaders. Each week will typically feature a different presenter. Presentations will be varied, covering topics such as leadership, management, sales, contracts, negotiations, finance, etc. See anticipated schedule of topics. A major portion of this class will include group discussions, role playing and interactive activities. It is important to be "engaged" in all presentations. These activities will further increase your knowledge of our profession.

Classroom Conduct
It is important to maintain a positive relationship with our presenters. Remember that they are volunteering their time for you. Please fill the room from the front and show common courtesy.

Grading Methods
No late work will be accepted.

1. Weekly discussion board participation- 30% of final grade
   Each week a different topic relating to the presentation may be posted on RamCT. Each student is required to post at least twice- once on the day of the presentation and again before the following Wednesday. Your postings must be well thought out, properly worded and grammatically correct. All opinions and differences should be respected and these discussions should act as a tool to create further examination of the respective topics.

2. Weekly reports and writing assignments- 20% of final grade
   Writing assignments will vary and may be assigned throughout the semester. Topics will include career goals, resumes and leadership plans, among others. These documents must be thoughtfully prepared with clear demonstration of your ideas and intent. Grammar, spelling and style must be considered.

3. Semester project- 30% of final grade
   Each student will complete a semester project. These projects will involve research and presentation of a wide range of topics which will benefit your career goals. All topics must be researched and presented for professor approval prior to completing final research.

4. Class participation- 20% of final grade
   Students will gain the most from this class by fully participating in each presentation. For each class in which students do not participate, they will lose half of this portion of points.

Honor Pledge
In 2010, ASCSU and the Faculty Council endorsed and passed the Honor Pledge. It is my expectation that you will honor the following statement throughout this course: I pledge on my honor that I have not received or given any unauthorized assistance on this academic work.
