Address the following areas using the "Content Considerations" below:

- Identify any part of the manuscript that the author should clarify or make concise.
- Review tabular materials (tables/illustrations) for irrelevant or unnecessary data.
- Provide general comments and suggestions regarding significance, originality, or merit of the research.

Content Considerations:

- Has the author established the relevancy of the manuscript to the:
 - ✓ Field of science
 - ✓ Type of publication
- Does the manuscript present significant new information?
- Does the author display an awareness of previously published information on the same subject and relate his (her) findings to it?
- Do the research results adequately support the conclusions?
- Is the manuscript free of contradictions in the conclusions drawn from the data?
- Are the author's deductions and conclusions logically and clearly stated?
- Are the author's opinions presented as opinions and not as facts?
- Which tables or figures should be omitted? Combined?
- Should the number of references be reduced? Expanded?
- Which sections of the manuscript should be omitted or condensed?
- Are the main points of the paper clear to one not in the author's field?
